Faculty Research Grants

The University Center sponsors a program of competitive grants for Princeton faculty members to support research, conferences, and collaborative projects on subjects relating to values in public and private life. In 2016-17, the following awards were granted as part of this program:

Joseph’s Dreams – Modern Visions Conference (2017)
Leora Batnitzky, Department of Religion

50 Years Later: Remembering Langston Hughes Conference (2017)
Wallace Best, Department of Religion and African American Studies

Lauren Coyle, Department of Anthropology

Alisha Holland, Department of Politics

Andrew Lovett, Department of Music (with Wendy Heller, Department of Music)

Within the Quota (Cole Porter) Performance (2017)
Simon Morrison, Department of Music

Ethics and Informed Consent in Intra-Familial Kidney Donation in Japan (2017)
Amy Borovoy, Department of East Asian Studies

Re-thinking the Languages of Care (2017)
Susana Draper, Department of Comparative Literature

Ethics of Humanitarianism Manuscript Research (2017)
Eric Gregory, Department of Religion

Deana Lawson, Lewis Center for the Arts

Russell Leo, Department of English

Sarah McGrath, Department of Philosophy

Religion and the American Normal (2017)
Judith Weisenfeld, Department of Religion

João Biehl, Department of Anthropology and the Woodrow Wilson School

Sex, Race, and Human Nature: the Descent of Darwin Conference (2017)
Erika Milam, Department of History

Income Inequality and Social Norms (2017-18)
Tali Mendelberg, Department of Politics

Refugees and Native Reactions in Germany: Part II (2017)
Rafaela Dancygier, Department of Politics (with Amaney Jamal, Department of Politics)

Information, Constructive Social Capital and Governance (2017-18)
Leonard Wantchekon, Department of Politics

The Psychology of Authoritarian Rule (2017-18)
Rory Truex, Department of Politics